Modulex

Wayfinding, signage and graphic solutions.

Modulex was founded in 1963 by the Lego Group. Since then, we have grown to become a global provider of wayfinding, signage and graphic solutions.

The knowledge and experience we have built since then is the foundation of the advice, service and support that we offer to our Clients.

Our goal is to help create accessible, productive and engaging environments through the provision of clear and timely communication.

Our approach is built around 4 simple questions.

Can I see it?

Seems obvious but you'd be surprised. Best intentions disappear as sightlines become obscured or message size and positioning is compromised. In fact, is anyone even looking?

Can I read it?

This is not a sight-test. If you want to avoid creating delay, confusion and frustration make sure it is legible.

Can I understand it?

"Say what you mean" as the March Hare tells Alice. Be concise and reinforce the instruction or message with every tool at your disposal (or ours).

Do I trust the information?

If it is credible, it will reassure prompting swift decisions and actions.

(Apparently the hormone oxytocin is responsible for building trust. You can take our word for it).

Let's be clear

Our solutions are capable of meeting the most demanding circumstances. We offer custom designed and fabricated sign products, flexible and proven modular systems and digital products designed to respond to future change, as well as a broad range of graphic printing technologies offering designers complete creative freedom.
